“ I'll always treasure my visit to Louisiana and how kind and friendly your family and friends were to me. I had a wonderful time. I experienced many southern traditions that were new to me. The food was a great new experience for me. Tommy tried to teach me how to cook okra and it was not good. He ended up burning the okra and the spatula and then confessing that he had never actually cooked it before, only eaten it. We laughed about that a lot. Kally gave me a special holder to keep your cooking spoon from burning after that experience!
